Miss Tully.

1 met Miss Tully in a boarding house She was supposed to earn her own living, but no one in the house knew her occupation. She usually went out about 0 o'clock in the morning and remained most of the day, but there was pothing regular either about her going or her staying. Sometimes she would remain in the house for several days at a time, and sometimes when she went nut in the morning would return before noon and not go out ugalu. There was a good deal about Miss Tully that interested me. She was never for a long period in the same mond. One day she would be merry as s cricket, the next in the depths of despnir. Then she would be subject te fils of anger, when no nm cared to approach her. Any sensible person may judge from this that Miss Tully was not likely to make a good wife, but I have noticed in young men a disposition to neglect the girls who are especially fitted to make homes con fortable for those who are so const

It was is the spring of the year, and Miss Tully was like the sepson, light hearied, exuberant in spirits and, it seemed to me, willing to listen to love's young dream.
Little by little I turned my words upon that drenth, which by this time had entirelled me. Miss Tully snw my drift and seemed to yield to a pleased latguar, listening engerly to what I said.

I poured into her ear all a lover could say, leading up to a proposal, when she stopped me and said ecstnitically:

fle put out. To repeat my glowing words was not to my mind. Fortunate-ty my embarrasament was refleved by a maid entering with a note for Mis-Tully. She opened and rend it. From that mement she was changed. Her light heartedness disappeared and with it her apparent interest in what I had been anyling to her. Smarting under this sudden indifference, I left her. #### Susannah Tufts Chapter, D. A. R.

1 in Monday, tice. 28, the regular monthly meeting of the Chapter was held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Goodspeed. The regent, Mrs. F. G. Sterling, presided. Reports were given and plans discussed for future meetings. A paper on "Old Hoston," written by Hrnjamlu F. Stevens was read and proved of interest, as it was replete with unecdotes of the early inhabltants.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the hostess, and tea passed sround in cups over a hundred years old. They were so itsinty in design many were tempted to take the tea for the pleasure of handling the cap. Envelopes with the offering enclosed for the marble statrease for Confinentst half were coffeeted. Aff ! who have not contributed may send their envelopes to M18. A. B. #### CONFEDERATE FLAGS. The Stars and Bars and Then the Red

Battleflag. The first Confederate flag was the stars and bars, a blue field and three stripes, one white and two red, and on the bine field seven white stars in elrele, a star for each state that up to that time had seceded. In battle, however, it was seen that this binner oore altogether too close a resemblance to the stars and stripes, and thus there came into use the Confederate battlefing, the origin of which seems to have been as follows: This is the statement of General William L. Cabett: "When the Coa federate army communical by General Beauregard and the Federal army confronted each other at Maanssas, It was seen that the Confederate flag and the stors and stripes tooked at a distance so much alike that it was hard to dis tinguish one from the other. General Iteanregard, thinking that serious mistakes might be made in recognizing our troops, after the battle of tuty t8, at Blackburn Ford, ordered that a small badge should be worn on the left shoulder by our troops and, as I was chlef quartermaster, ordered me t nel and to distribute it to each regi-

About the truth of un-shrinking Garments that are Sbrunken. Here Is the tady's statement which has her signature :-SUMMER ST., WEYMOUTH, MAS

"We made use of the NEVERSHRINK com-pound for the first time last season as an experimen in restoring some Shrunken Garments. The result in restoring some Shunken carmonis, The result, much to our surpsise, was the mushrinking of three full suits of nice flannels which were so milled and hardened from several washings they were practically useless. By washing them regularly with NEVER SHRINK the garments semained nice and service able throughout the winter and are in good condition yet."—{Name given on request by NS. Cempany,

She had simply waited. She could afford to wait and persisted in giving her age as twenty-five right along and making herself be-lieve that time was standing still on her account.

Miss Sarah was feeling in this seones Sarah was feeding in this se-rene and oddinistic mood when she was invited by friends to be their guest at a summer hole on the banks of a lake. They diln't consult her reinance as much as their rown interest. They had two children and a dog, and they figured on making the old maid work for her heard and lodgings. She fell into the trap, but not to her detri-ment, the of the nule guests of the hotel, who might not have noticed her In any other walk, saw her as nurse and dog guardian and made advances. This guest was darkly supposed to be no arter-no actor who played great paris and unde a great success of his job, last who was there incog, and wished to remain so. The other guests were respecting this wish, but following itim about with failed breath.

These opinions were expressed to the actor for the purpose of drawing him out, but he refused to be drawn. tte had just sat down to a mint julep with two straws in it, and why worry? Miss Sarah had entered the wood with her heart allame with romance. She hustied her way along for half a mile und then halted for the actor to arrive at the head of a rescuing party. Ite didn't arrive. She walled for an hour and then storted to walk back. Her feelings were hurt, and she lost the points of the compass and became lost for good. When she discovered this fact she called and screamed, but only the obipmunks and the woodpeckers answered. She ran this way and stumbled over roots. She rau that way and went splashing into a creek. There was romance in the greenwood, but it was further on. All that long, long doy Miss Sarah was lost in the It was almost sundown when her good genlus limitly guided her to a clearing with a log cabin in the midst of it. Seated at the door of the cable was Grli is the grain of character. It may cenerally be described as hernism materlalized-spirit and will thrust into heart, hrain and backbone, so as to form part of the physical substance of the man.-Whip-

Luther Burbank, the famous hortleulural wizsrd, says there is not a weed the bare spots with grass seed. Now alive which will not sooner or later respond liberally to good cultivation and persistent stiention. A day will come when the carib will be transformed, when mun shall offer his brother man not bullets. or bayonets, but richer grains, better fruit and fairer flowers.

Most people do not expect enough of hemselves. They do not realize that hem the power of doing, they could do themselves if they only tried. So much of what seems to "come just natural" to other people is only the result of long continued effort. We may not be able to do as they have done, but some measure of success in the asmu direction is within Endure! Strength of character-real strength-will result. By them your soul s proved—and polished. You cannot escape the finishing process. Don't try! 1 is the will of God. It is your Father's urpose. He knows the whole process of out refining. His wey is good. Bo brave! liave courage! You need the stress and strain and struggle. It may be most nuplessant-but it it best.

We should realize the sacredness of msli things which we ignoroor despisethe deed that uplifts, aithough it is unheraid: the word that inspires, although uttered so gently that your neighbora do not bear it; the hand claps which puts your brother firmly on his feet without public applause. Hence the small things dare not be despised by those of us who wish to rise to higher things.

A very matter of fact Scotchwoman sailed to see in neighbor, an elderly woman, who had been allieg for some time "And how do you find yourself today, anet?" was the greeting. "Ah, Martha, I'm very bad. This cold, Coburn, Secretary of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture, says: "When, in the late seventles, he was planting 437 acrea to apple trees in Leavenworth county Kansas, many of his neighbors looked a turkey from ole Eucle Ephrahn and atudy. Writing about Judge Wellbouse ipon film as welf-nigh demented. Over four hundred acres in orchard! it was antonishing! It was destined to be a fist failure! So said the croakers; but Well house, undanuted and ondiscouraged worked on unmindful of the banterin and rallying, and the outcome justified hi faith in Kausas and himself and forever slienced those who daulited."

It Was Hard to Find.

Mrs. M. tl. Quackentos, whom Attorney General Hunsparle has made one of his special assistants in the campaign against the trusts, is a New York lawyer.

Mrs. Quackenbos has the faculty of underscoring a tensitighth an appropriate fable, says the Washlogton Star. Thus, discussing the other day the character of a certain notorious collinosaire, she said; of amongs there is some honesty in the a certain notorious colliceatre, she said;

"I suppose there is some honeaty in the toan, but it is loatd to find. It reminds the of the rathway ham sandwich.

"A man, you know, paneed bitterly in the consumption of a very batd, dry tail way ham sandwich, and said to the maid behind the bar:

ehind the bar;

O H don't see to Lam in this!" face,
And the shadows all dancing behind;
Who can meet his reverses with coloniess and grace,
And never forget to be kind:
For whether he's wielding a sceptre or swab,
I have faith in the man who's in love with his job.

Infing the last year inciness conditions in the Commonwealth have not been good. Many people have been out of employed next, and those who were employed have in many instances been obliged to work short time, because of the finited demand for the articles produced in our large manufacturing establishments. These comultions have obtained all over the United States, and in other nations as

At the present line there is a very marked improvement in tunsiness; many more people are being employed, and, while there is nothing in the way of a insiness bound, conditions are distinctly better, and the authors is trighter than it has been during the tast year.

Floancial Coodition.

The net disent data are alled at the condition of the condition of the condition of the condition.

The net direct debt, as culied, of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, on this lat of December, 1998, was $17,049,372. In this direct debt is included $2,020,829 of the armory loan, transferred during the past year from the seconded confingent

EBEN S. DRAPER. delit. Without this armory loan the direct cet deld would be $15,018,540, or no be crease of about $650,000 in the last ter

During this time the so-called contingent deht of the State has increased very rap-idly, being, ten years ago, $20,803,112, while Bu the presse of $30.535,t11 in ten years.

Bubstantially this entire debt, along $21,000,000, has been theurred during the last twenty years, and it is being paid by the people of the metropolitan district.

I do not undersound why this debt f the Commonwealth is teferred to as a con-tingent debt. It is a direct obligation of thigent debt. It is a direct intigation of the Commonwealth, but it differs from the net direct debt, so called, in this; that for the payment of the net direct debt all the people of the State are taxed, while this so-called contingent debt is to be published. to the State by the people of the metropoli tan district.

The Communwealth, however, ta directly responsible for its payment, and has based its own direct obligations for the maney The so-estled costingent debt is for the money which was borrowed for the metro pollish water works, the metropollish sewers, and for the construction of metro-pulltan parks, etc.

1 believe better and more correct name fur these two classes of debt would be "general debt" and "metropolitan debt." "general debt" and "metropolitan debt."

Of like metropolitan debt, $40,580,580 has been incurred for the water supply, and aught not to be a burden on the community getting its benefits, as the water rates whill more than pay all the expenses, in-terest, maintenance and slighting funds. The sewer debt is of course a necessary burden upon the community which needs the sewers for a proper system to ald in the preservation of leadth.
The money expended for the metropolitan parks may take been a wise expenditure, but it is a very heavy burden.

State Tax.

In all expenditions, many to appropria tions where not absolutely needed, and excrelating a trous careful supervisitor of all expenses, so that our direct State tax, which bears teavily upon all the people, may be reduced as much as possible.

It poss without asylog that where it is necessary to appropriate money for unavoidable enlargements or changes in our funditutions for the care of the insane, sick, rrimitest and autoriumate, such appropriations abould be made, and no putlicapirited citizen, I am sore, will object to a junjer las for such a purpose.

But I do blink that no appropriations which are not absolutely needed for the proper care of the people abould be made, in the present financial condition of the Cumoiouwealth
Tasation.

B., Joseph tional Forests, amounted their in the last uertin. The oilicers will be installed year to $618,384 in cash and "free use"

In 1907, the total of "free use," tlube iembers of the Elmwood whist club at her haine on Front street last Friday and money paid over amounted to about $253,400. The increase of the amount given to the states from 10 per cent to 25 per cent of course is largely responsible for the large return in 1908, but even had this percentage not been changed a good lucrease would have been shown despite the demoralization of the lumber business caused by the illuancial flurry. In fact, this increase may be clooked for up to many times the present amount as the demand for Righer bacreases, and the fortests are developed more and more.

Many able committees have been ap-pointed in the past, in all when the Leg-lishing is not in essent, to consider yard one matters and make recommendations to the Legislature for new laws. In most cases, in recont years important recommendations made by these committees have not been casted into law. The committees have been made up of considerations near, who have given much thought to be subjects with a three were appointed to consider their reports have not brought about many important changes in legislation. In hegislathor.

We care one of a very few States in the Tulon who have amount elections and acadeus of the Legislature, and the Legislature is in session for substantially als al of every twelve.

Index these conditions, meressary changes in our taws may be considered and acted on eathout the appointment of recessary mittees, which are of necessity expensive, and, as we have annual elections and annual assessments of the legislature, are uncertainty.

Massachuselts has always maintained a high reputation for the quality of education that has been turnished by her public and private educational institutions.

In the last year there was contributed by the people of the State, for all whool introcess, $18,515,422.

The great question that is intereuring the people today, in the way of general education, seems to be that which is termed "industrial education."

There does not seem to be a general agreement as to just what this term means. Many propile seem to think that "industrial education" consists of instruction in manual training, which can be given, to a certain extent, in the grimmar and high schools of the State; but to my mind this

"Industrial education" means much mare than incidental instruction in accented man-ual training, and 1 do not believe that it can be properly furnished except in special schools, devoted to that and to no other

I de lutlege that our method of education in grammer and high schools can be shaped in such a way that pupils desiring an "hidustrial education" may begin in an industrial school better prepared than they ion are; but I do not believe that the presuse are; but I do not believe that the prea-ent organization of public achools ran far-nish "indistrial education" to their pupils. Our education now tends very much more to neademic acquirement than to indistrial training; and, while opportunity should be furnished to the few pupils in our public achools who desire to prepare for college training, changes should be made in their training, so that great numbers of the schools who wish industrial education or girls desired to intend them at that age, they could take a practical course which might last for two or more years, so that when they left they would be prepared to when they left they would be prepared to enter, with some substantial training, 1010 the industrial work of life.

Buys and girls from lourieon to seventeer or elyliteen years of age are not at the present time farmished by public schools with intequate training in the direction of a life work, if it is to be connected with a train. The pupils who go to life schools are ubliged to take much more of an nearly-one training than thay would be, provided them were suitable industrial schools for them to attend dur-

The law provides that 25 per cent, of the amount expended for these highways shall be collected by the State Treasurer from the countlest so that the total espense directly chargeable to the State has been nhout $5,080,080, and the average nel amount expended amountly by the State has been obset $500,080. heen obser $330,084.
The present low, passed in 1988, has pro-yided for an annual expenditure of $58,083 for the years, so that the pulley of the Commonwealth is well determined.

treatment of this question.

There can be no doubt of the wisdom of multitabiling in good condition the splendld property which we have, rather than Increasing our inflease rapidly by bu ing money for new construction, and allowing the roads we already have to ruo down because of hunfielest expenditures.

The park roads in the State are a comparatively small amount in mileage, but, because of enorming automobile trathe over greater license fee than is charged to effi-rens owning lighter and less destructive motor vehicles. Such laws have been co-acted in other States, and, in my opinion. are practical and comparatively easy of ap-plication.

1 think, further, that the money rulsed from such registration fees should be used for the maintenance of State roads. In building these Sinte roads it has been the palley of our commission to build them the pairs of our commission to the form of the so that they would connect with the north highways of other States. This policy should be continued, and I think we may safely assume that other New England States will jurisue the same general policy States will jurisue the same general policy in the construction of their highways, and thin co operation will eventually be of great benefit to the people of all the New Eng-land States.

Automobiles.

As I have previously stated, these ve-blries have, in my opinion, come to risy, and will constantly increase in numbers. I have already referred to changes that I think it would be wise to make in legisi think it would be were to make a legis-tation having to do with increased receipts from the use of certain classes of machines.

I further helieve that our laws should be so amended no to better regulate the con-ditions under which they are ran. The ob-fect to be attained by such legislation, in my view, is to prevent reckless operation training, changes should be made in their traching, so that great numbers of the schoiars who what industrial education should have an opportunity to study with that end in view, rather than be oddiged to pursue, as at present, a course mainly aendoule.

I believe that separate ladustrial schoola should be established, which should not take in scholars, hops or girls, at less that fortices points of age. I am and prepared in state whether or not there should be an age Rail in the other direction; but and greaters and dangerous aperation of such vehicles. Where any paratical oil such vehicles. Where any paratical data in the other direction; but and greaters is convicted. The pountry about the great is convicted. The pountry about the greaters are taken as the case may be. The other maintained in the other direction; but and prepared in state whether or not there should be an age Rail in the other direction; but and prepared in sections is convicted. The pountry about the severe is not if glaring cases of on stars whether or not there should be an age Rain in the other direction; but anch should be an organized that if boys ar girls desired to attend them at that age, they could take a practical course which the profit of the course which the course of th

I would further suggest that some law night be passed which would make it a criminal offence to use an automobile without the owner's persolston.

Harbora and Public Lands. I believe that the appropriations for it provements in our harbors in the recent past have not been unde in e proper and systematic way. Many no-called improvements have been more of an readoule truling than thay would be, provided there were suitable industrial schools for them to attend during these years.

In every section of the Commonwealth one may see lays and girls between four-teen and seventent, who are too young to work, on the streets daing nothing, or getting an education for which many of than that o general appropriation, of an amount that o general appropriation, or an manning ecfficient to cover all such work, be mo-mining made by the Lagislature; and that the money so appropriated should be ex-pended on such projects as meet with the approval of the Harbor and Lau I Com-mission. mission.

In this way the sum appropriated rould be kept within reasonable findts, no sequenced improvement would be started without the approval of the responsible floard.

which has these matters in charge for the Commonwealth; and before results would be obtained for all the people.

In this connection it would be able to pass a general law nuthorizing cities and towns, by a two thirds vote, to appropriate troney to perform work and assume the risk of land damages for harbor and the risk of man damages for naria and yo by different departments having as collected water improvements of this Link, in the lirely different conception of what such direction should be.

It may not this year be feasible to bring dring, and the Falocoath act for Dencon

Pond. This would provide a good test of leapublic laterest in proposed improvement and would, if part of the cost were born by the town, show the real interest of the community to such improvement. There would undoubtedly be cases when the town could not offerd to juty mything, while the improvement might lant. In other cases the town might I willing to pay a part, and the State could pry the test, if it were really ate in rovement.

1 would auggest that the amoust approprintion by the State for such purpose should not be in excess of $75,000.

If any given work were to be under taken for the benefit of the whole State, it could of course be dealt with as a sepa-rate period. One System of Bookkeeping.

An act was passed by the last session of he Legislature reliapter 507r which pre-ided that, under the direction of the abould be substantially uniform should be estatilished for all our faultiations. ON THE FARM.

If it is wrong for a man to have a disensed cow in his herd, why should it not e considered just as much so to let a tree overed with insect pests, or affected with ome bad disease, stay in the orchard?

Very much is said about feeding warm water to cows. The same principle applied to swine. Cooked or steamed food will keep heller wrapped in a wet newspele to swine. lors the hog an immense amount of good.

It requires the same amount of feed to produce a pound of pork as for a pound of poultry, yet poultry sells for an average of twice as much as pork. This is a thought for reflection, at least.

In order to guard against files the stabla should be thoroughly cleaned often. A sprinkling of the floors with a mixture of a teaspoonful of carbolic acid and two gallons of water, will disinfect the stall, while the manure heap may also receive in application with advantage.

As a healthy cow will consume from 60 o too pounds of water per dlem, the insee the drainage from the stable passing sach a serville manner?" "I libits it is uccomplish those Things you desire into the stream from which the cows drink, liceause he is neither rich enough to get. All I want is a suit of line clothes." into the stream from which the cows drink.

Soil culture is recommended by some successful prach growers. The soll h worked during the time the trees are grow ing, and a clover crop is sowed for fall and wister which is plowed under early in he spring. Clover crops should not be left until they suck up too much mulature all we got ter do is ter go ter sleep in de from the soil at a time when it is needed hot sun an' rise up and leat watermillions

If the pasture has a thick soil the owner and needs little attention. If the sod is Constitution. thin, the pasture should be given attention at the earliest possible moment. White clover is a good index of the condition of the pasture Where it grows luxuriantly, the owner may feel sure that the soil is rich in phosphates as well as nitrogen and Ituring last winter there came a deep snow, and we had nothing to use for clean-ing the walks except a pressed steel shove says a writer in Popular Mechanics. The snow would not slip from the shovel withont a hard jerk on the shovel hande. This tired me, and I began to think of a remedy, which resulted in taking the shovel and heating it with hot coals from the fire. When hot I applied a wax candle to the surface, covering it all over. The snow then would readily slip from the shovel.

Heliheral to your farms and they will one respect like a looking glass—it reflects | cowa?" the character of the owner exactly. If he is parsimonious his farm will show it. If he is a man of taste his buildings fences and general arrangement of his Weymouth farm will tell the tale. No effort on his part to disguise his real thoughts or sentinents will avail anything so long as the farm is sure to be paid well for his risk friend was in a great hurry. He was try-the day a knot of politicians hungry for plunder were discussing the situa ly man said to them; "If you wil back me up I will go to the queen and necomplish those things you desire A shoul of laughter greeted his offer. Then some one suggested that for a joke it be accepted.

Nul long after this the queen received a message that a special ambusandor from a neighboring sovereign had arrived with a view to making a trenty.

Margaret expected to see a man huposing appearance and, being some-what timorous of such men, sleeled herself to meet him. She was surprised to see a man larely live feet three Inches high, with long arms and legs and a slight curve in his back. Nevertheless his head was large, and he possessed one feature of remarkable benuty and intelligence—his eye. Margaret uniont to this insignificant creature at once, assigned him a wingof the palace and as soon as he was rendy-he seemed in no harry-began to talk over the terms of the trenty for a slice of territory, a payment of Indemnity or any such matter the nu-bassador would say in a soft voice: "Your majesty's modesty in your de mands is what is to be expected from n woman of such loveliness. I shall advise my sovereign to double the amount you cluim." There was no diliteuily in making a Irenty on such terms, and the queen closed the negotiations, delighted with the envoy. Then the treaty was sent to the other sovereign interested for confirmation, and the ambassudot obliged to wait for an answer, re-turned to his apartments. That night the queen heard a vote singing in the unbussador's wing, ne-companied by a guitar. It accused to her that it was the voice of an angel. She listened till the song had ended and, not hearing more, sent a request for the sheer to resume the did s and Margaret went to bed filled with the most entrancing thoughts. that the singer was the ambassado tall speeding one summer on a road that She usked him to sing to her, but he nnce with its own sweet will. Meanwhile during the day, there be ing no treaty to talk about, the queen began to speak to the nmbnssador about her affairs. Never had sho heard such wisdom, such farsighted auggestions. He told her that such a queen na she would be a blessing to every people, but in all kingdoms there was low grade work that only coarse in tured men could properly perform.

The treaty never came back, and the umbussador at last confessed that he was no eavoy, but one who, having seen his queen from a distance, so worshiped her that he had been impelled to do a dishonorable act for the sake of passing a few weeks in her ntoratde compantonship. #### Shoe Industry.

With the beginning of the new year all Interested in the shoe and leather industry are booking forward to a business which may offset the deficiency of last year. The great shortege in the production of shoes in 1908 as compared with previous years would seem to indicate for carting them away, in fact. I soil that more shoes must be made in 1999 to them at fourpeace a lag, most of my supply a lack in stocks, the result of de-pletion through sales, and the musual them, when broken up, with 'shick' for the new movement along the line of Misses Hertha Dimbur 'us, and Leslie Sen- wear to which the shoes hi use in 1308 ecol. And same of our shore birds, a gov-ernment naturalist tells us, are still more inveterate voyagers, making ex-season at Great Slave lake, far the arctic travels twice as fast as the inlies a day is the record so far Breat Slave lake, the speed always la-creasing as the idrals move northward. The roldn is an old fushianed, lelaure y tourist in comparison with some oth er species. It never does more that eventy miles a day. The average rate for all intgrating birds from New Or leans to Minneseta is about twenty three talles a day. Itnt after leaving Milmesota several species of feathere migrants make first 40, then 72 and finally 150 miles a day before they reach Maska.

The ldrd traveler that gives the naturallst the hardest transportation problem to solve is the red eyed vireo pears each spring at the mauth of th Mississippi, traveling twenty miles of day. At this leisurely rate it proceed for six weeks, all the way up to the latitude of northern Nebraska. There suddenly, in the space of twenty-four hours and terfore a single red eyed virco has been seen anywhere in the region tetwern, numbers of the birds appear la Itritish Columbia, a thousand ulles to the northwest, This puzzling performance is repented every year. Unless the red eyed virco tiles a thousand miles in a single wildering schedule?

Noboly knows, but then accords knows either where the chimney swift goes for five monihs out of every year. Great tlocks of chimney swifts, with numberiess fledglings among then leave the United States every nutums Their movements can be easily follow ed till their vorlous migrating band join into a countless host on the north-ern coast of the guif of Mexico. One day they are there; the next day they are-nowhere.

Five months later, in March, a joyfu twittering far up in the air beralds their reappearance on the same spot pinnip and brisk after their winter so-journ. But where the winter has been spent only the swifts know. It used to be a tradition (made out of "whole cloth") that they hilbernated in mut. But that merely showed the impeless attitude of men's minds to fore the natural question, never an swerest, and leaving the mystery deepswerest, and leaving the mystery deepremail numbiler—than ever.

The golden player, too, has a yearly schedule of travel known to the natschedule of travel known to the natbest F. Barker of Brockton, Assistant. in June it reaches the "tarren grounds" or in the arctle circle, where Greely found these bird voyagers as far north as latitude 81 degrees. nests are built on the moss, close above the frozen ground; the young are rear ed, and then the flocks hasten to Lab rator in Angust, where the crowberry when they leave the feasting place is the full their bodies are plump almost to bursling, and their very flesh is stilling red with the crimson juice o

They strike straight for the Antilles and for South America beyond, more than 2,500 miles in all. The plover car swim, however, and rest on the ocean wave, and on the way down it frequently feeds in the Sargasso sen where, far out in the Alinatic, thou-sands of square miles of seaweed teem with marine life.

After resting a few weeks in tha Antilles the plover starts afrash, this time for l'atagonia und southern Argentlin. Unlike other birds, it puts its whole mind to traveling and fles both night and day. Six months in Patagonia, and then back it travels to the unctle by way of Guatemala, Texas and the Mississippi. The whole yearly route forms a great, irregular ellipse, Start nilles long and 3,000 miles acros as were the stories about the migration of Idras believed by the ignorant in early unscientific times, the truth is, a nul, stranger than fietlon .- Youth's Companion.

I was at the time on a tas-source train of the Iron Mountain senger train of the from Mountain rallroad in the first car, and in front of the was my typical brave. He were his hair long number the broad brint of lds sombrere, and a pair of enormous revolvers were stuck in his toll. He couldn't have been more than twenty-Eve or (wenty sly years old and war very handsome. Somebody told me that he was an express messenger, It was about 10 delock at alght that I felt a jog, and the train slowed down, Then the forward door flew open, and a masked man stepped in with a shit gun in lds hands, the butt of which in immediately brought to his shoulder, pointing the muzzle at the passengers.

Then he tink what money the man had and his watch and chain and passed out to the text passenger. When he got to the end of the car he went out, the num at the door still pointing his gun at us. In this position we remained till we heard a shoul, and the man at the door went out. Pretty soon after this the comfactor came late the car and told us the rolders had gone, But what un awful fall my hero had made from the pedestal on which I had placed bind. He was still whing the blood off his face when the train moved on, and every one was guying him. We stopped at the next station, null be arose from his sent to get off. The lucal ablpments are larger, as are also thuse from shoe manufacturing towas. The past week less found some two hun dred or more shoe men ta Bostoa studying the market. They represent a very large distributing territory, and seem to be preparlag for a lively season

There seems to be a new feeling developling among some of the slice buyers, which is finding expression in a readiness to place their orders for the fall of 190 than has recently been their custom. Heretofore the policy has been to hold off, expecting to signife better terms than the manufacturers offer when new huslness is discussed. Experience has shown that with the constant apppeciation in the cathe of stock and the increasing cost of manufacture, the pulley of delay works to the detriment of the layer, and contrary o his expectations and hopes.

Now, after much hard schooling, the etallers and jobbers who are accustomed o place their orders, or part of them, in Boston, have taken advantage of present oudlthous and have given some orders, and, as toryers are coming to Boston, it is expected that the next forthlight will proace more of such orders

The best impulse which could affect the shoe market would be a severe winter The sale of heavy goods would be mater ally affected, and that would help to clear a way for the spring stocks as well as remove the danger of being oddiged to carry over till next fall the misidd goods, it such quantities as would refect the purchase of new goods, the samples of which are now being exhibited. Her solitary rambles in he word were entivened still by the assibility (all nurceognized, yet ever that a beautiful fawn, medd and wearing a golden collar, might step into the path at any moment or a harndess welf, enchanted and in dire need of aid, thrill her by its appeal for sucror. It was this unquenched spirit of remance that led her into the snewy ocils to gather Christmas decoration for her cottage, which she occupied alone. She would see no one all Phristmas day except the Portuguese

This state of affairs was owing rhiefly to the folks in the other house. No one in the village felt that Miss Christina needed any especial thought, with the other house so near-just fence between and, although practically every one understood that its inmates and Miss Christian were on but imiliferent terms, nobady realized that except for the Journeys of the Portuguese boy, who brought the milk unit sometimes shoveled a path for Miss Christian to her precious henhouses, the latch of the door in the shed wall of the other house was never lifted for may passing or repussing believed the Iween the two houses.

Yet Miss Christina never thought of wing away from her home may more than she did of holding actual hard feelings toward her busy, heedless sister-in-law or of seeking more friendliess among the village people. A little bank account kept Miss Christina free from actual want, the most right economies, practiced quite us a matter of course, gave her a few haxuries, her hens farmished her with real interest in life, and she went on quietly, as she had always done, harlaring a fountain of child romance in her nususpecting heart and living to all consciousness and outward appearuse the simplest and most presale

Not for worlds would she have looked round, but she felt no real surprise when the aurual of the bells shickened leside her and a deep mas culine voice asked her to ride. Forty years may be a long time to wall, but if one is not conscients of widting then the thing is as if it night have happened at may moment.

She looked up now, her cheeks deep eiding in color, and rejdled with quick futter of embarrassment in her voice, the embarrassment of one not much used to speaking with strangers, but without distrust or hesitation Then she saw it was not a stranger, although they had never spoken to each other before. It was the man who owned the voods where she had been gatherlag the holly and creeping pine, all the delightful paths where she flugered I snumer, all the heights, down to the edge of the village itself; the great house at the end of the avenue of elms, on the upper road, which was in plain right from her own windows necess the fields, and ramor was no able to say exactly how much else sides in the metropolis from whence he brought his wealth. Nevertheless her imagination flew in stantly and hinocently to all sorts of delightful possibilities as she alrowed him to help her into the sleigh and took the relus in her hands while the green stuff was inched away behind he sent. She told him laughlingly where she had ideked it and moke ber thanks for the freedom of the woods that was tendered her at once. Then she fell silent, the unwoutedness of her simulou commencing to op press her. She answered her neigh-bor's farther friendly remarks with norosyllables, wondering meanwhill with judnful carnestness what people talked about, what they ought to say, under sach conditions. At length she said what was uppermost to her mind. as a rhibl might have done. "I never was in a sieigh before."

"You were never in a sieigh before?"

repeated the man leside her, as if he hardly credited what she said. "How is that?" Then, "I beg your pardon." But Miss Christina was nuconacionn "No unswer?" excluded the man

"Father never owned one," she said.

They were raphily nearing the gate of her home. Shall we not go on? asked the man, adding considerately ometiding aloud the man and quality

Miss Paristina assented without trace of shyness. She was growing more natural and at her case every moment. The possible and the real were idending so harmoniously that there was less and less room for self consciousness. Even commune reases to be commune while it is in process of centrence; it becomes then merely de-

Not even the knowledge that at every village window eager eyes were taking note of the fact that the owner of the great house on the hill was out riding with t'rischany Stelddus could dim her pleasure. She was miking presently as frankly as if to an oblacqualitance and listening with delight to the un-folding of new fairy tales, which her neighbor's descriptions of cities and sights abroad were to her unaccustom ed ears. Touched by her naive inter est, he excited bluself ghally and be-came entertaining beyond his word. They had passed through the village, re-entered it by another road and left it for the open country ugain before Miss Christian gave a thought to the passage of time. She was com-pletely under the spell of adventure

The trees wholing past gave her sense of pleasure in their shapes and Telations to the kindscape quite new; the very fields she saw at a different angle and from ligher up than when she traversed the read on foot. The man at the relus turned the horse into a crossroad that led to higher ground, and Miss Christina caught a glimpse of dark blue. She utitered a little cry of pleasure. For the moment she ha almost forgotten the man at her side. He was watching her with absorbed Interest. "I didn't know you could see The ocean here," sald Miss Christina, with the satisfaction of a child. "They have cut away the trees since I was in a carriage." She stequed abruptly, remembering that it was in her mother's funeral procession she had last ridden over this road. Suddenly she missed her mother afresh. For almost the first filme since the polynamey of lonelliness and begun to wear away she thought with real shrinking of the empty house to which she must return, "I ought to go lack," she said, "I'm like the dog one of our neighbors used to have when we lived at Eristol for a little while. She kept him tied up all the time. She said it made him so 'uneasy' if she let him run. 1 was thinking I didn't want to go home

The man looked at her sharply, but there was no trace of significance in her face or manner. She was speaking her thoughts with perfect unconsciousness of how they might strike n llstener. A change came over man's town face; an expression of widnistical tenderness took possession of it. He had done many odd and reckless things in the course of his somewhat bomby life. He was going now to do perhaps the oddest and most reckless of all.

"Suppose I were to say, To not go hack at all-go on with me always?" he said; bending a little to catch Miss t'hristina's answer.

HELPED THE BOYS.

A Letter That Aroused King Christian of Denmark. King Christian of Denmark once found in his morning mail a letter which moved him more than did most matters of state. The letter was in a boylsh scrawl and read as follows: Doar King—We are four hops at Plok-kel-jerb school, and the master whips us duly with a dece of steel rope he found to the barbor. If he doesn't stop there will be a lire.

The name of the teacher being given the king ordered him to report at once to the minister of justice, while he took the next train for Flakkebjerh and examined the class in the teacher's absence. The children, unawed by the presence of the cruel teacher, told their grievance to the kindly idd king, who promised immediate relief, closed the chool for the day and ordered that the hoys he frented to chocolate and cake nt his expense "lo remember him by."

But he did more than that. On retarning to Copenhagen he dismissed the cruel teacher without pension, at the same time giving a general warn lug to all teachers lu he chary of cor poral punishment. "If boys enmot be trained without ernel beatings," this wise king said, "then there must be something the matter with those who train them. The coming generation must not be made railians by railianly tenchers." Isla of Wight.

The Isle of Wight lubabitants are not alone in speaking of "going to England" when they leave their own fragment of the kingdom, A patrioti Cornishman also "goes to England" when he crosses the Tunnar. Similar ly inhaldiants of the Halkan pentusuh lalk of "going to Europe" when the leave their own corner of the couth nent-in curious contrast with the peo-ple of our own Islami. We regard our selves as lath of and in "Europe," and necordingly It is only "the contin that we visit. The record he splendid Isolation line is probably hebi the Clyde, who prayed for a blesslu upon "the lubabiliants of Great and Little Cumbrac and the adjacent is hands of Great Hillian and Ireland."

The Tower of Famine.
The Terre della l'ame, or Tower of Furblue, was noted for its grewsome history. It once stood in Pisa, Italy but there are now no traces of ! Comil Fgolino della Gherardscha, whom lunte limins-rullized, was the head of the Guelidis, and because of his tyrning and accredited attempt to place his country in bondage to was untagorized and finally conqueres by the chief of the Ghibellines, wi two gramlsons, in this tower, the slow method of starvation being employed as the manner of their death. The door of the lower was locked and the So. Weymouth, Mass.

SKOBELEFF'S REVENCE.

The Way the Russian General Re-puld the Canris Insuit, During the Russo-Turkish war the day after the passage of the Dumbe had been made good the emperor of itussia crossed the river to congratu-late and thank his galbut soldiers. In rout of a long, massive line formed on the slope below Sistovn, nuniting the coming of the great while ezar, stood Drugomiroff, Volchine and Skobeleff, the three generals who had been the leaders of the successful attempt. bragomiroff, the divisional communder, the emperor embraced and gave blin the cross of $1, theorge. He shook hat, is warmly with Yotchine, the brigade commander, and gave film, too, a St. George to add to the decorations which this cheery little warrior had been gathering from buyhood in the Cancasus and central Asia. Then the emperor strody to where Skoheloff stood, and men watched the little scene with interest, for it was naturious that Skedeleff was in disfavor with his sayreign, and yet of him the entrips wero ringing with the story of his conduct of the previous morning.

Would Alexander multiplin his nuibrage or would be make it manifest that it had been displaced by Skobelett's herdsm. For at least a minute the ezar hesitated as the two fall, proud, soldierly men confronted each other. You could trace in his countenance the struggle between disapprov-I and appreciation. It was so o over, and the wrong way for Skobeleff. The emperor frowned, turned short mails heel and strode abruptly away without a word or a ges-Inre of greeting or recognition. A unm of strong prejudices, he was not yet uble to exercise from his mind the cul-numles that had idrekened to him the character of Skobeleff. That officer, for his part, thished scurlet, then grew dendly pale and seemed in emquer un linguise as he set his teeth hard and maintained his dis-insult in the very face of the army and a gross injustice, but Skobeleff emitted t in a proud silence. The time soon came to that gallant and brilliant soldler when he could afford to be unguantmous. As the cam-palga pragressed he distinguished himself again and again, so that his name became a synanym in the army for aptendid daring as well as for oppor-
